Pastor's Perspective ...

ALL OR NOTHING

Today's Gospel reading is a sequence of four incidents and encounters with people who could have become disciples of Jesus but were held back by their excuses. Each encounter highlights a different concern.

The first incident was the encounter with the messengers of Jesus and the Samaritan villagers. The concern that held the Samaritans back from accepting and following Jesus was patriotism. Samaritans and Jews were bitter enemies. The Samaritan villagers had probably heard about Jesus and what he was doing and were interested in following him. But, when they learned that Jesus and his disciples were Jews and were heading for Jerusalem, their admiration turned into opposition. Patriotism and devotion to national cause is, of course, a good thing. But when national interest becomes the spectacle through which one sees all reality, including spiritual and eternal reality, then one is in danger of losing perspective.

The second incident involves a man who says to Jesus, "I will follow you wherever you go." Jesus replies, "Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests; but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay his head." Why did Jesus say that? Probably because he perceived that he was a man who valued financial independence and security. It is good thing to have high economic goals, so that we can provide adequately for ourselves and those under our care. Yet when this keeps us from wholeheartedly following and serving God, then something is wrong.

The third incident is that of the man who wanted to first go and bury his father, before following Jesus. But Jesus' response to him shows that we should not allow our cares and worries to immobilize us and keep us from following him.

Finally, there is the man who wants to go and say farewell to his family before following Jesus. He was following the example of Elisha in our first reading. This man had high social and family values. It would have been good if we all could be sensitive to let our family members always know our whereabouts. Yet before the urgent call of God, social and family concerns take the back seat. "No one who puts a hand on the plow and looks back is fit for the kingdom of God."

My dear friends in Christ, Jesus in today's Gospel reading shows us that if we want to follow him, we must follow him unconditionally. He will not accept a second place in our lives. He wants to be first or nothing.

*Remain Blessed,
Father Tony*
