Thoughts for Today's Readings

To the Point: The magi rely on an interesting mix of information to find Jesus. Their study of astronomy reveals to them that a new star has risen, and they are able to follow that star as far as Jerusalem. Jesus is not there, though, and they are rendered dependent on the expertise of others and the sacred texts of a foreign land. This points them to Bethlehem, where Herod assumes they will still need to “search diligently” in order to find the one they seek. But the star again takes over, leading them more precisely to the very house where Jesus is staying with his mother. Our paths to God are also often convoluted. We may perceive clear guidance for a time, then run into a dead end. But we can be assured that God desires us to know Christ more fully and is thus always with us and guiding us ever onward in our journey.

To Experience: The arrival of the magi in Jerusalem might remind us that God can work through people we did not expect. No one in Jerusalem would have expected that these foreigners would have known about the Savior's birth before them, yet here they are, alarming Herod with their sudden announcement. We might be tempted to write off God's presence when it comes from unexpected people, but the unexpected is very often how God chooses to work.

1. What twists and turns have you faced in your journey with God? Where has a dead end led to an unexpected revelation?
2. Where might you find God present in an unexpected person or place? Who might you write off because of their strangeness? How might they reveal God to you?
3. How might you engage in local or national politics to encourage your leaders to uphold the dignity of all people, especially those who are vulnerable or marginalized?

Dear Friends in Christ!

Happy Feast of the Epiphany of the Lord!

This weekend, we celebrate the Feast of the Epiphany. We reflect on the journey of the Magi—wise men who followed a star to find the newborn King. Tradition gives us the names of these three Magi: Caspar, Melchior, and Balthazar.

Caspar, often depicted as a younger man, brought frankincense, symbolizing Jesus' divinity and priestly role.

Melchior, an older figure, presented gold, acknowledging Christ as King.

Balthazar, with darker features, offered myrrh, foreshadowing Jesus' suffering and death.

These men came from diverse lands—Persia, Arabia, and possibly India—representing the nations of the world being drawn to the light of Christ. Their gifts expressed the fullness of Jesus' identity: God, King, and Savior.

A fascinating legend speaks of a fourth Magi named Artaban, who also set out to find the Savior. Artaban carried gifts of rare gems for Jesus. However, his journey was interrupted by numerous acts of charity—helping the poor, the sick, and the needy. Because of these delays, he never reached Bethlehem in time to see the Christ Child.

Yet Artaban's story teaches us an important lesson. Though he did not meet Jesus in the manger, he encountered Him in the faces of those he served along the way. His journey was one of love, and his life became an offering to Christ through acts of kindness and mercy.

The story of the fourth Magi challenges us to reflect on how we seek Jesus in our lives. Like the Magi, we are called to bring our gifts to Christ. But Artaban reminds us that our true worship lies in daily acts of love and compassion.

As we gaze at the star this Epiphany, let us ask: Where is Christ calling us to bring His light? May we, like the Magi, be guided by faith, and may our offering reflect hearts transformed by love.

*Blessings on our journey of Faith,
Father Josua*

Parish Mission & Vision Statements

Help Reinvigorate Our Parishes! Holy Trinity & St. Gregory Pastoral Councils are joining together to compose a combined Parish Mission and Vision statements. Two volunteers from each parish are needed to join the development team discussion starting early 2025. Please contact either parish office if you are interested.

What is Couple's Night Ministry?

Couples' Night Ministry was started to "give couples access to a night out and to empower them to feel God's love and grow in a relationship with Him." It is an opportunity to learn together where God is impacting our lives and what ways He is asking us to open ourselves up to learning.

Next Couple's Night:
January 6 @ 6:30pm Holy Trinity

Each of us have received a unique set of gifts or charisms from God. We are called to share these charisms in service to one another. As couples, learn about your individual gifts and how these gifts can be used together.
