Thoughts for Today's Readings

To the Point: As we approach the end of the liturgical year and the end of Matthew's Gospel, the readings become weightier and more eschatological. As with last week's gospel reading, this text is highly allegorical, unlike the simpler parables we encountered earlier in Matthew. Initially, there are two different responses to the king's invitation – apathy and hostility. For either reason, those whom God had chosen to attend refused the offer. Even still, the king desired to hold a feast, and orders his servants to invite whomever they could find, "bad and good alike." God desires his eschatological banquet to be as well-attended as possible. All are invited; none are excluded. Even if we accept the initial invitation, if we do not enter with a "wedding garment" – a prepared heart – we will not be permitted to stay at the feast. With the unfortunate ending of the long form of this gospel reading, it is important to emphasize the generosity of God's offer. Only by our own choices are we left without, but that freedom makes it all the more important to respond appropriately.

To Experience: In today's parable, we probably would not identify ourselves with the invited guests who murdered the messenger, but we might see a bit of ourselves in those who went back to their farms and businesses. If our heavenly king's feast is as great as we believe it is, why would we refuse the invitation? Because we prefer the comfort of the spaces we know and the people we choose to surround ourselves with, clinging to time as if we own it. Even if God's invitation is abundantly generous, God does not RSVP for us.

1. How have you recognized God's invitation in your life? What is God calling you to consider today?

Wearing A Proper Wedding Garment

Today's Gospel presents the challenging parable of the wedding feast. In this parable, Jesus compares the kingdom of heaven to a king who throws a grand wedding banquet for his son.

The initial invited guests have refused to come, making light of the invitation and turning away to their own business. In response, the king has sent his servants out to the main roads to invite everyone they can find, filling the hall with guests.

This shows that God's invitation to the heavenly banquet is radical, generous, and extended to absolutely everyone. However, the story takes a serious turn when the king notices a guest not wearing a proper wedding garment. This garment symbolizes the necessary transformation, repentance, and change of heart required to enter God's kingdom.

We learn that while the invitation to grace is free, we cannot remain unchanged by it. The text concludes with the sobering reminder: "Many are invited, but few are chosen." Let us pray for the grace to accept Christ's invitation daily with a fully converted heart and a life clothed in righteousness.

Next Weekend – October 17 & 18

World Mission Sunday is a special moment of encounter with the Pope's missions throughout the world. It is a day for Catholics worldwide to recommit themselves through prayer and sacrifice to the Church mission. It is held the second to last Sunday every October.

On World Mission Sunday we are provided an opportunity to nurture and enrich over 1,000 local churches in Asia, Africa, the Pacific Island, and parts of Latin America and Eastern Europe, an area that covers more than half the territory of the globe. Through the work of these churches, the poor receive practical help and experience God's love and mercy.

Please support the work of the mission Church and make a generous gift on World Mission Sunday. Let us share the joy of the Gospel with fervent prayer and generous hearts. Please use the envelopes in today's bulletin or pick one up at the back of church.

October: Pregnancy & Infant Loss Awareness Month

October is Pregnancy and Infant Loss Awareness Month. If you know parents who have lost a baby through miscarriage, stillbirth, ectopic pregnancy or infant death, please remember them and their child(ren) in your prayers this month.

The blue candle burning at the front of each church is in honor of all parents affected and the memory of their children.

"Let us pray that all parents who mourn the loss of a son or daughter find support in their community and may receive peace of heart from the Spirit of Consolation."

Congratulations

Matt Schneider was officially instituted into the ministry as acolyte in September by Bishop Ricken as part of the diaconate formation.

Journey to the Heart of Jesus

"Where your treasure is there will your heart be also."
Matthew 6:21

We know that stewardship means taking care of what we have been given by God. But what exactly are we to be good stewards of? In short, everything!

So not just prayer and service but also a share of our finances. What?! God doesn't want my money, does he? Much more than money, God wants your heart. And if we are trusting in God, we won't be afraid to prayerfully discern what giving generously means for us.

Giving is a symbol of our total commitment to Christ. We give back to God in thanksgiving and gratitude for all that he has given us. Consider the church building where you worship. Years ago, the faith of those who came before you inspired members to build and maintain the church and provide for the spiritual welfare of its members. We reap the fruits of their devotion to God.

Our stewardship of this gift is obvious, isn't it? We must provide for its future members by continuing the legacy we have so generously been given. Although we may never meet these benefactors, we are called to be part of the future of the church. In this way, they will know our hearts were with Christ.

Stewardship's Third Component: Sharing

During the weekends of October 17 & 18 and 24 & 25, you are invited to prayerfully discern what sharing means for you.

A kneeler will be placed at the front of church. Either during the Rosary before Mass or after Mass, all parishioners are encouraged to come before God to offer a Prayer of Thanksgiving for their blessings received. Your prayer may also include asking for God's guidance and clarity when discerning how to share the blessings you've been given. This may mean separating your basic needs from your wants, practicing deliberate charity, and supporting your church and the poor.

You are encouraged to add incense to the thurible (incense burner). (The smoke from the burning incense rises just as we send our prayers up to our Heavenly Father.) Before returning to your pew, take a prayer card along with you.

Religious Education 2026-2027

In addition to leading a Rosary Procession on October 14 (which everyone is invited to participate in), the RE families have been challenged to participate in various rosary activities and to pray the rosary as a family throughout the month.
